

Popular ports.

Vancouver.

Grouse Mountain and Capilano Suspension Bridge are just two of the top highlights of Vancouver. Her Gulf Islands are teeming with wildlife, so keep your cameras close and binoculars at the ready for spotting pods of dolphins, seals, eagles, whales, otters and sea lions.

Ketchikan.

Ketchikan is probably best known for three things: salmon, scenery and rich Alaskan native culture. A photographer's dream, you can point your camera in almost any direction and capture a stunning image.

Tracy Arm.

Enjoy scenic cruising along the 27 mile long Tracy Arm Fjord, a natural gem. The inlet is very narrow - at times, no more than half a mile wide. Cliffs rise more than 3,000 feet on either side with waterfalls that cascade down steep rock walls.

Juneau.

This capital city offers incredible outdoor activities like glacier flightseeing, whale watching, fishing and kayaking amidst stunning Alaskan landscape. There is also a wealth of cultural attractions, including museums, historical sites, art galleries, events, festivals and plenty of local shopping.

Skagway.

Nestled at the northernmost reaches of the Inside Passage, Skagway's streets are lined with wooden boardwalks and restored buildings, looking much as they did 100 years ago. Have fun fishing, hiking or discovering the city's museums.

Icy Strait Point.

Icy Strait Point offers unparalleled access to adventure, wilderness, wildlife and genuine Native Tlingit hospitality. Eagles soar overhead and whales are regularly seen from the shore.

Hubbard Glacier.

This tidewater glacier off the coast of Yakutat is more than six miles wide where it meets the ocean. Scenic cruising will bring you by the face, which is up to 400 feet tall, and icebergs three to four stories in height are not uncommon.

Sitka.

Enjoy views of island-studded waters and lush forests reaching the water's edge. Sitka is home to the Tlingit, who celebrated their life and culture long before Russians or Americans walked on the rocky shores. Today, you can see that the Tlingit living culture is deeply rooted in this small seaside city.

Victoria.

Victoria provides a unique blend of old world charm and new world experiences. In Victoria, heritage architecture and colourful gardens combine with outdoor adventure and culinary experiences.
