Schastlivogo Puti with Dancers At Sea!

In the medieval town of Talinn, you can walk through the streets where baroque merchants and farmers traded their wares. The same streets that saw both prosperity and revolution. You may find yourself imagining the wealth of Catherine the 1st who built a gold gilded summer palace near St Petersburg. In Copenhagen you can watch the changing of the guard at Amalienborg Palace, the winter home of the Danish Monarchy who still rule Denmark. In Helsinki you will be less than 500 miles from the Arctic circle with as much as 18 hours of sunlight.

Best of all, you can spend your slow, relaxing sea days practicing your dance skills and learning some new ones. Taking it easy, you can watch the top of the world float by in true elegance and glamorous style.
